This agreeable composition, which is not surpassed by any of the imported Cologue or Lavender Waters, is obtained from plants which grow in the southern parts of the United States. It is an exculent and mild cosmetic, invigorating the nerves, refreshing and heautifying the skin and removing freekles and many other disorders of the face. It also contributes to a perfect state of health by counteracting nuxious exhalations, and fortifying the debilitated fibres.

Difference — When used for heautifying the skin, or to remove the heat of feror, half a table-spoon full in a half pint or a pint of water, the face to be well bathed in it. In the propoperation from balf a tea-spoon to a tea-spoon full, in a wine-glass of water, it proves an excellent philodontic, it strengthens the gams and purifies the breath, when taken as essence of perperminat for pains in the summach, from half a tea-spoon to two, in a little water and sugar, it is excellent in nervous head, suble-spoon to a table-spoon full will be sufficient for this operation. It is also one of the best applications in ease of bruises and spraine, as it causes the blood and limph to pervade freely their respective vessels. Being rubbed in the health, celor and beauty of the hear depends, and processes in a great measure from mature grayness.—For sale by J. H. NASH.

Flour Inspector's Notice.

N consequence of being frequently compelled, in the discharge of the duties of my office, to enforce the penalties of the law regulating the Inspection of Flour, against persons offering flour for inspection who have failed to comply with its requisitions, and in consequence also of understanding that the Flour Inspector of New-York (to which city a large portion of our flour is sent,) is very strict in imposing every possible penalty and onerous expense on our flour, I deem it proper to call the attention of all concerned to the following provisions of the law on the subject and to urge the necessity of their being strictly complied with; also to endeavor to induce merchants to pay particular attention to having flour shipped in good pay particular attention to having flour shipped in good order, by remedying defects which occur after it has order, by remedying defects which occur after it has been inspected.

Sec. 3, requires that all bolled wheat flour brought to any inspection, for exportation, shall be merchantable, of due fineness, and without any mixture of cearser flour, or the flour of any other grain than wheat, under penalty of condemnation, and ten dollars for each barrel, recoverable by motion of the Inspector, on ten days nome in any court of record; the flour to be said by the Inspector for the benefit of the Commonwealth.

Sec. 1, requires all flour barrels for exportation to be well hade, of seas-med materials, with ten hours, miled with four malls in each chine he p, and three males in cach fulge hour, under a penalty of 42 cts. The barrels to be perfect has in length, and the nead I 1 methes in diameter; half unrels 23 inches in length, and the outneter of the head 124 inches.

Sec. 5, requires the bils to be branded with the tare and nett weight, under penalty of 42 cts.

Sec. 6, requires each barrel of flour to contain 196 pounds, and each half barrel 98 pounds, under penalty of 8 cents for every pound deficient under 3, and of 17 cts. for every pound fover 3.

Sec. 7, requires the barrels to be weighed and the tare marked thereon.

Sec. 7, requires the barrels to be weighed and the tare marked thereon. It any person shall put a false or wrong tare on, to the disadvantage of the purchaser, be shall forfeit 83 cts; and the Inspector, upon suspicion, or at the request of the purchaser, shall unpack the barrel, and if there is a less quantity of flour than above directed, the owner shall pay the charges of unpacking and repacting, over and above the other penalties.

It will be seen by sec. 3, that if the Inspector ascertains that flour of other grain than wheat has been mixed with the wheat flour, the owner is subject to a penalty of ten dollars for each barrel, besides forfeiting the flour. Farmers and millers should therefore ng the flour. Farmers and millers should therefore which requires the barrels to be made of seasoned materials, is the cause of nearly all the other penalties that are incurred.

Where flour is packed in barrels that are not well seasoned, a penalty for short weight is almost certain to-be incurred if it is not immediately atspected; for although the full quantity of flour may have been put in them, it will be found in a short time that the bar-rels, from the evaporation of the sap, have lost several

And should it be inspected immediately after pack-ing, while the weight holds out, the merchant who buys it would sustain the loss, on its being reinspected in the place to which he sends it. The interest of the merchant, therefore, requires the strict entorce-ment of this part of the law, as well as of those which prescribe the manner in which barrels are to be hooped and nailed, and their dimensions.

I trust that those concerned will be careful hereafter to comply with all the requisitions of the law .-Should any person, however, from any cause fail to do so, it is my imperious duty to enforce the penal-ties, whether mourred from fraud, carelessness, or ig-norance, as the law leaves me no discretion on the subject.

I would recommend to those who have flour to inspect, that has lain any time after being packed and weighed, to re-weigh it immediately before submit-ting it for inspection. This would save them in many cases from incurring a penalty, and me from the disa greeable duty of enforcing it.

Merchants who purchase flour for shipping, and the captains who receive it, seldom pay sufficient attention to the order in which the barrels are in when

It frequently happens, when flour comes to be ship-ped that has lain in store some time after being in-spected, that the barrels from not being preperly seasoned when the flour was put in them, are found to Shell tuck, long bent, neck and deep teeth side have shrunk, and become so infirm, that in getting them cut of the store, transporting them to the vessel and shipping them, they sustain injury, which if not remedied will subject the merchant to expenses on being reinspected. The hoops get knocked off—the heads fall out and spill the flour, which is partly lost, and what is put back is mixed with dirt, that may cause it to be refused on being offered for reinspection, besides being liable to a penalty for short weight. To prevent this, merchants shapping flour should be careful to have all barrels requiring it recoopered, and to seeing that the draymen, laborers, and sailors handle the barrels carefully; and they should also be paricular in having flour that has lain any time in store after being inspected, re-weighed before shipping it. These precautions will save them from incurring burdensome and vexatious expenses when the flour comes to be reinspected. Captains who sign bills of lading for flour as being shipped in good order, when it is not in good order, (which they frequently do) should be held bound for all damages that may be incurred by its not being found n good order at the port of delivery, as much as if the damage had been incurred after they received it. It is their duty to refuse signing bills of lading for flour as being in good order when it is not, and the responsibility should fall on them for so doing.

It is impossible for the Inspector to prevent flour being shipped in bad order, (even if he had the power to do so, which he has not,) where the injury occurs after it has passed inspection. My duty I am determined strictly to execute; and it is the duty of the Farmer, Merchant, Miller, and all others concerned, to aid me in sustaining the character of our flour in every requisite; so that even those interestedly jea-lous of the high character it holds, and who seek to depreciate the price by burdening it with onerous expenses, with the view of enabling their flour better to compete with it in their own markets, may seek in vain for pretexts to do so.

EDMUND WALLS Flaur Inspector, Richmond.
